DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claim 60 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In line 6 of the claim “truncated icosahedron” is within parentheses. It is not clear if this language is intended to be a positive claimed limitation. It is suggested to delete this language.

In line 7 the word “conditionally” is used however, this fails to positively claim the invention. It is suggested to delete this language as well.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Claims 55 and 57 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Anzai et al.

Anzai figure 1 shows a container having an inlet opening 4 whereby a patient’s extremity may be inserted into the container and be moved within the container. Also taught is a plurality of massaging element disposed within the container.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 58 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Turnewitsch in view of Wisnieski.

Turnewitsch teaches a container T for containing a plurality of massaging elements for massaging the feet. The massaging elements are generally spherical. Wisnieski teaches spherical massaging elements for massaging the feet and includes a plurality of projections extending from the spherical exterior for enhancing the massaging effect. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Turnewitsch to shape the massaging element to include projections as taught by Wisnieski to enhance the massaging effect.

Claims 55, 56, 58, 59 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fukuma et al. in view of Wisnieski.

Fukuma teaches a container with water and a plurality of generally spherical elements therein. Wisnieski teaches generally spherical massaging elements that also include a plurality of projections. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Fukuma to include projections as taught by Wisnieski to enhance the washing and massaging effect on the feet.

Claim 60 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.
